Warsaw, May 6. N. S.

THE Gentlemen of the Rokotz, according to the Circular Letters issued out by the Cardinal-Primate, met yesterday at Lowitz; but in so small a number (not being 40 in all) as evidently shews the present weakness of that Party, and gives us reason to hope this Confederacy, which has given so much disturbance to this Kingdom, will fall of it self, and that those few who have hitherto forbore submitting to the King, will not now long delay doing it. The Primate himself appears daily more and more enclined to make his Accommodation, and seems only to wait the return of the Deputies he sent some time ago to the French Court, who are on their way hither, but, as we are informed, with such an account of their Negociation there, as will not much encourage him to persist in the Interests to which he has hitherto adhered. In the mean while the Preparations for the Campagne go on with all expedition, the Forces will shortly begin to march towards the Frontiers, and the King intends the next month to begin his Journey thither; and, if not to besiege Caminiec, at least to block-up, and to streighten that place in such a manner, as that they may be reduced by Famine. A Body of 5000 Men are shortly expected from Saxony, and with them a considerable Train of Artillery, to be employed in the Service of this Crown. We have Letters from Lithuania, which say, the young Prince Sapieha, Son to the Great General of that Dutchy, has in a second Engagement totally routed the Adverse Party; who, finding themselves unable to make any further opposition, are all returned to their several Homes, forsaking the Sieur Oginsky their Commander, who has taken a Monastery for his Refuge; and that General Sapieha is coming to Court to give the King an account of his Proceedings, and of the posture of Affairs in those parts. Our last Advices from Cracow say, the King's Magazine in that City, having taken fire by some accident, was unfortunately burnt, with a good quantity of Corn and Ammunition. It is much Discoursed, that the Margrave of Bareith, during his late stay here, has obtained a Promise from the King, that the Queen shall have the free Exercise of the Protestant Religion in case she comes hither, and that no alteration shall be made in Saxony in Ecclesiastical Matters.

Vienna, May 7. Their Imperial Majesties, with the King of the Romans, went on Monday last to Luxembourg, and were followed the next day by the Archduke Charles, the Archdutchess his Sister, and the Bishop of Osnabrug, with the Prince of Lorraine his Brother, and the rest of the Court. Orders are given out, that the great Train of Artillery designed for the next Summer's Service, be forthwith sent to Hungary; and the Commissioners, appointed to furnish the Army with Provisions, have Orders to take care that the Magazines be speedily filled with all Necessaries for the use of our Forces, who will now take the Field in a short time. Prince Lewis of Baden is expected here in a few days from Germany; all things, as we hear, being ready for the Evacuation of the Places on the Rhine which he is Commissioned to take possession of, for the Emperor and the Empire. We have advice, that the Moscovite Ambassadors intend to come to this Court from Holland, and to take their way through Brandenbourg and Saxony; whereupon Commissioners are appointed to go and receive them on the Frontiers of the Emperor's Territories, and to conduct them hither. The Letters from Croatia say, the Seraskier of Bosnia, in his late march towards Wihaitz, sent to the Garison of that Place a considerable supply of Men, Provisions, and Ammunition. Those from Slavonia bring an account, that the Turks continue to put all their Places in the best posture of Defence they are able; That they work with much application on the new Fortifications near the Danube, and the Lines along the Save, which are to cover Belgrade; as also in repairing the Fortifications of Vypalanka and Banzova. Our last Advices from Adrianople say, the Resolutions of the Divan are much alcered, and that the difficulty they find in raising Men, and gathering Provisions, &c. for the next Campagne, has so well backed the Grand Visiers Arguments for Treating about a Peace, that the Grand Signiot seems now as earnest for it, as he was lately (through the Mufty's persuasion) for carrying-on the War, and that he has resolved to make the first Advances by sending a Chiaux hither with his Proposals; Upon which Measures are taking at this Court for carrying-on the Treaty jointly with our Allies, in order whereunto Ministers are expected from the King of Poland, as is likewise the return of a Courier dispatched to Venice on this occasion, who, it is thought, will bring their Ambassador here the necessary Powers to that effect.

Strasbourg, May 9. The Duke of Lorraine is expected here to morrow, and all things are making ready for his Reception, which will be very splendid. Divers Gentlemen of Lorraine are come hither to attend him in his Journey to Nancy, for which place he intends to set out in 3 or 4 days. Monsieur Vauban is lately arrived in this City; and 'tis discoursed, that he has Orders to cause a new Citadel to be built for the greater security of this place. Our Magistrates have lately received a Letter from Monsieur de Barbesieux, Minister of State at the French Court, who tells them the King his Master, very much wonders, that many of our Burghers, and those of the best Condition, have left this place, and are gone into the German Territories, upon the apprehensions they have of being troubled on the score of their Religion; Upon which he assures them, that no Disturbance shall be given them in the free Exercise of the same, or any of their Priviledges, and that he will a-new confirm the Capitulation made with them
